- With an investment horizon of 3 to 5 years.

KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Credit Risk/Default Risk. The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to a borrower's failure to pay principal and/or interest in a timely manner on instruments such as bonds, loans, or other forms of security which the borrower issued.

Reinvestment Risks. The risk associated with the possibility of having lower returns or earnings when maturing funds or the interest earnings of funds are reinvested.

Interest Rate Risk. This is the possibility for an investor to experience losses due to changes in interest rates.

Inflation Risk. The risk that the value of investment is lower than the rate by which the prices of goods and services go up.

Liquidity Risk. The possibility for an investor to experience losses due to the inability to sell or convert assets into cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a loss.

- The Fund implements a risk management policy that applies the principles of Value-at-Risk (VaR) and Modified Duration. VaR is defined as a statistical estimate of the amount of loss that an "open" risk position is unlikely to exceed during a given time period with a given level of confidence. Modified Duration is a means to measure the change in the value of a security in response to a change in interest rates. The formula is used to determine the effect that a 1% change in interest rates will have on the price of the bond.
- The Fund's investment outlets have been subject to proper screening and evaluation in accordance with LANDBANK –TBG's accreditation process and minimum regulatory requirements.

REDEMPTION CONDITIONS

Receipt of instruction from the Administrator; subject to penalty if redeemed before the minimum holding period. For Partial Redemption, remaining balance should not be less than minimum investment.

FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

The year 2022 ushers in an inflection point that brings the economic cycle into a full circle. With the global community nearing full conquest of the Covid Pandemic, economic recoveries have also gained traction. And with the supermassive economic stimuli unleashed by major central banks, the global financial system has been inundated with trillions of dollars in excess liquidity. This would unavoidably spur inflation, which saw the U.S. register its highest price increase in 40 years. The same is true of Europe after the ECB brought interest rates down to zero and purchased trillions worth of bonds. But the most concerning development is the emergence of an extreme tail risk when Russia invaded Ukraine. The armed conflict sent world crude oil prices skyrocketing. After averaging at just $71/brl in 2021, Brent crude soared to a peak of $139/brl. The already beleaguered global economy has suddenly been jolted by a force of much greater magnitude. The predicament of the Federal Reserve has just become direr. After executing its first rate hike since 2018 on March 16, the U.S. central bank has to keep hiking and do this at the same time it reverses quantitative easing into quantitative tightening to siphon liquidity. This is a very tough act as a miscalculation could have serious consequences on the fragile global economic recovery. This is made worse by the U.S. yield curve inverting, which, more often than not, has portended an economic recession.

VIEW STRATEGY

The direction of interest rates is undoubtedly upward as the Federal Reserve turns on a dime on its monetary policy. From extreme accommodation, it has to revert to an aggressive tightening path. But the Russia-Ukraine war has thrown a monkey wrench in the works. Now that the U.S. yield curve has inverted, a recession could eventualize by next year. Hence, the upward direction of interest rates will be limited. Nevertheless, we have already minimized the Bond Fund's portfolio duration, making it fairly insulated against the negative effects of rising interest rates. The key is to lock in the long-term securities and maximize durations when yields reach their peak. This could come by the third or fourth quarter of the year.
