FUND MANAGER'S REPORT

The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas raised interest rates another 25 basis points in November to conclude the series of tightening measures beginning in May. This brings a cumulative of 175 basis points increase in key policy rates to 4.25-5.25% by the end of the year. While inflation plateaued in the beginning of the fourth quarter, suggesting a decelerating momentum forward, the decision came in a proactive move to arrest further second-round effects. Well enough, domestic and global price pressures receded to support the lower path ahead. Forecasts now consider the consumer price index to settle within the 2-4.0% target in 2019-2020. Thus and so, monetary policy at current settings remain appropriate to allow previous adjustments to work their way through the economy.

VIEW STRATEGY

Fourth quarter investments were kept on the short ends as inflationary concerns governed key interest rates. The Fund will continue to maximize investment allocation to banks with high yielding deposit products for optimal returns. The short-dated investment will answer Fund liquidity requirements.
